

Great Finding of WWD Population

( KIKUK Swamp, 9 – 12 April 2011 )

All WWD photo by Dicky T. Sutanto

After one month intensively monitoring a couple of White-winged Wood Duck activities go outside to the rice field in the evening and get back to the forest on early morning, (will be written on "WWD to the rice field report") it's time to continue the WWD observation for 2011 inside the forest.

Information of WWD finding by some WKNP's ranger during their patrolling activities around "KIKUK swamp" (on 2009) , brought us to another WWD exploration.

On April 9th- 12th ,2011 we explore the area.

A great WWD population finding (9 birds) and some nice WWD photo were obtained

More record of WWD remaining population in Way Kambas National Park

The first WWD group (3 young WWD)

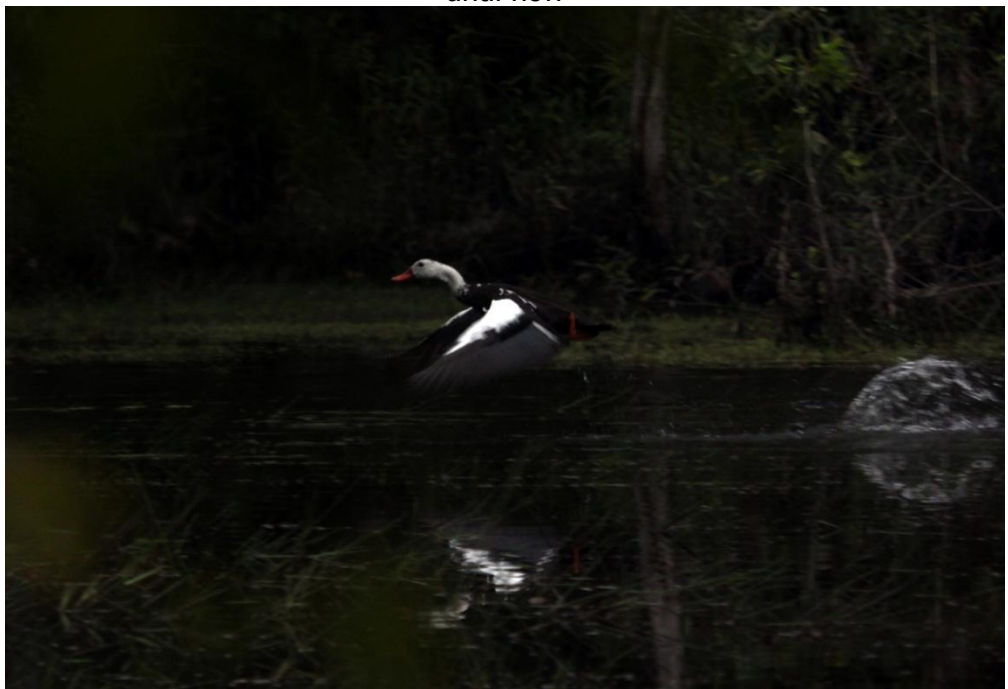

Young WWD (still has scattered black spot on it's white neck/head)

The second WWD group ( 6 birds )

The "KIKUK swamp" : there has never been any WWD observer/researcher explore this area until now

We still find some ex-illegal fishing track (abandon camp and fishing sticks)
